Subject: Spring 2015 Welcome Back Day
"The Chronicles of Foundational Skills"
Tuesday, January 20, 2015

All staff are invited to the morning activities of Spring 2015 Welcome Back Day scheduled for Tuesday, January 20th. The day starts off at 8:00 a.m. with a brief President's Update and employee recognition segment. Our featured speaker will be Dr. Darrick Smith, Assistant Professor of Leadership Studies at the University of San Francisco, Co-Director/Principal of the June Jordan School for Equity, and Center Director of LearningWorks, an organization that strives to strengthen student achievement in California community colleges.

Classified Staff: Although we will announce to the general public that offices will be closed until 10:00 a.m. on that Tuesday, some offices will need to remain open. Please work with your supervisor on whether your area will be closed or not. The morning presentations, including that of our guest speaker, promise to be enjoyable for all employees.

Faculty: As reflected in the Academic Calendar, this is a required scheduled Flex day for contract faculty. Part-time faculty members are not required to attend; however, I would like to personally encourage all part-time faculty members scheduled to teach in Spring 2015 to attend. Those who attend Flex activities will be compensated for up to three (3) hours of participation plus up to three (3) additional hours if they have Flex hours allocated for Spring 2015 (contact Courtney Vigna at cvigna@shastacollege.edu for any questions).

The Welcome Back Day schedule can be accessed via the following link: Spring 2015 Welcome Back Day

It will be the start of an exciting new semester. I look forward to seeing you on January 20th.
